Clinical activities and service development activities are documented to assist in the delivery of care and in the management of services

Created by Prue Campese, Tamworth Mental Health Support Group

The viewer is looking at the screen of a computer, t.v. or video. Information is stored on these, and on the camera in the hand of the person on the left and on the sheets of paper all over this quilt square.

The writing is indistinct because of the privacy and confidentiality afforded to consumers by mental health services.
